Internet Disclosure of Physician's Address

California law requires the Medical Board of California to provide, upon written or verbal request, an address for each licensed physician. All public-record information pertaining to licensed physicians is available to the public through to the Board's website (www.medbd.ca.gov).

The release of this information has highlighted the need for physicians to carefully consider the address they provide to the Board as their address of record. Please be aware that the address you indicate as your address of record will be the address disclosed to all individuals making inquiries and will be utilized to mail all licenses, renewal notices, and other official correspondence from the Board.

You may choose your home address or your office address to be your address of record. Other options you may wish to consider are:

1. You may provide a Post Office Box address that will be listed as public information; however, you will also need to provide a street address that will remain as a confidential address. California law requires all physicians to provide a street address in addition to a P.O. Box address.
2. You may provide another address as your address of record; this address may be your employer's address, office location, billing address, or a friend's address. Please ensure that you receive permission for the use of an address other than your own.

If you wish to use an address different than the one listed on your application at the time you become licensed, please confirm in writing prior to licensure, the address you wish to be shown as your primary address of record. Again, if you list a P.O. Box as the primary address, you also need to provide a secondary street address that will remain confidential. Also, please be advised that the law requires that you advise the Medical Board in writing of any future address changes within 30 days of your move.

Specific questions regarding your application may be directed to your licensing technician or analyst at the above address or by telephone at (916) 263-2499 between 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (Pacific Time), Monday through Friday.
